

Today is National Thank a Teacher Day - a day to celebrate schools, colleges, teachers and support staff across the country!

What better way to mark this than to say congratulations to colleagues from The Greater Horseshoe School in Devon, on their recent recognition from the Pearson National Teaching Awards - Louise Davey, Richard Hibbert, Abi Wrenn, Aaron Stephenson and Chris Clements.

The purpose of the awards is to celebrate the outstanding work in schools across the UK and to celebrate excellence in education. Colleagues will be presented with their certificates today, and the school will also celebrate every member of the Greater Horseshoe team for their fantastic work. The certificates were accompanied by a hand-written letter from the President of the Awards: children's author, Michael Morpurgo.

Well done everyone!
